FIRST R. I. STREAMLINER IN TRIAL RUN

Stainless Steel Streamliner Makes Run at 90 Miles an Hr.

The first of the new Rock Island stream lined trains made a trial trip run from Chicago to Peoria Thursday. The train consisting of three coaches traveled at a speed of about 90 miles per hour. The run from Blue Island to Mokena a distance of 14 miles was made in nine and 1-2 minutes. The train made the run from Mokena to Minooka a distance of 22 miles in 19 minutes.

The streamliner, one of a series of six trains to be known as the "Rockets" is made of stainless steel and has the appearance of a silver streak as it glides across the country.

Next Sunday morning the regular Denver train will make its first run and is scheduled to come through Mokena about 8:30 a. m.

Only officials of the railroad were on board the streamliner which made the initial run to Peoria on Thursday.

In order to safeguard crossings in villages thru which the new Rock Island streamline trains will run, the railroad officials are contemplating installing flashers and gates at the crossings. The gates are to be electrically operated. It is understood the railroad is planning to install flashers and gates at the Mokena crossings which are now protected by flagmen in day time only.

The silver-like appearance of the streamliner brought back memories to the older folks of the time when the Rock Island operated a "silver" covered locomotive through this section on a regular run.

The new streamliners have been given the name "Rockets" in memory of the first steam engine operated on the Rock Island in 1852 and which was called "The Rocket." The new "Rockets" however, are many more times speedier than their illustrious old name-sake which burned wood for fuel whereas the new streamliners are operated by oil burning Diesel engines.

Aged Mokena Resident Dies In Home of Son

Mrs. Mary Hostert who has been making her home with her son, Barney and family, in Mokena since the death of her husband, Nicholas, in 1931, died Monday morning following a paralytic stroke last Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Hostert, nee Mary Bisinisi was born in Homer township February 4, 1860. On January 24, 1881 she was united in marriage with Mr. Nicholas Hostert also of Homer where they farmed until in 1929 when they retired from the farm and moved to Mokena.

Mrs. Hostert has not been in good health since Easter when she suffered a heart attack.

Mrs. Hostert is survived by four sons, William of Lockport; John of Calgary, Alberta, Canada; Jacob of Frankfort and Barney of Mokena and twelve grand children.

Funeral services were held from the home of her son to the St. Mary Catholic church in Mokena Wednesday morning. Burial took place in the St. Michael cemetery in Homer township.

Two Brothers Fined For Fighting

Mike Lombardi of Mokena had a warrant issued for the arrest of John and Charles Stanger, also of Mokena charging them with beating him up last Saturday night. The case came up Tuesday night in the court of Police Magistrate Albert Hentsch who fined the Stangers $5 and costs each and placed them under a $100 peace bond.

Lombardi charged that during the fracas he was bitten in the arm.

Delinquent Auto Licenses Turned In For Collection

For many years the Village board of Mokena has found it a rather hard job to collect the village automobile licenses. This year the same trouble was faced by the board. After giving the auto owners seven months of grace in which to pay the annual $3 license fee, the board has turned over the names of delinquent auto owners to Police Magistrate Albert Hentsch for collection.

In addition to the annual license fee, the delinquent auto owners must also pay a collection fee.

FAILURE TO OBEY STOP SIGNS LEADS TO BAD CRASHES

Disregard of stop signs on Keane avenue, route 45, at the junction with 159th street, was the cause of two serious auto collisions last Friday and Saturday.

In the first accident which occurred at 6 p. m. Friday, a car driven by L. B. Worman of Kankakee going south on Keane, crashed into a car going west on 159th street. The latter car was being driven by John Darras, 907 Herkimer Street, Joliet. With him were three other men.

The Worman car was going at such a high speed that the impact of the collision threw the Darras car against a trailer truck standing in front of the Brennan Gables, puncturing a 30 gallon gas tank on the truck. Luckily no fire started. The filling station pumps in front of the Brennan place were barely missed from being hit by the car.

With Worman was an elderly man whose name was not learned. He was very badly injured and was rushed to the Oak Forest Infirmary hospital. The other men all suffered cuts and bruises and were given first aid by the county highway police. Both automobiles were badly smashed.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT SATURDAY

Saturday at 12 o'clock noon, a near fatal automobile crash occurred at the same junction point when a car driven by Harry Osipowicz, 40, of New York City going south on Keane avenue failed to stop for a stop sign and collided with another car going east on 159th street, driven by LeRoy Adelman, 21, of Lockport.

In the crash, Osipowicz's wife Fannie, 45, was hurled out of the car and was very badly injured. She suffered numerous lacerations on the head, arms, leg and the heel was cut off of the left foot. She was rushed to the Oak Forest Infirmary hospital and later was removed to the Michael Reese hospital in Chicago.

Osipowicz and Adelman were also cut and bruised and were given first aid treatment by the highway police.

Highway police are stationed almost daily at this intersection and have made many arrests for disregarding stop signs. Tuesday morning two automobile drivers, one from Pennsylvania, and the other from Indianapolis, were arrested for failure to stop at this intersection and were fined $10 and cost by Justice Ray Brennan.

Drives Auto Into Side of R. I. Train

A car driven by John Plantz, 25 years old of 8910 Baltimore Ave., Chicago, crashed into a Rock Island east bound passenger train on the Wolf Road crossing in Mokena at 4:30 Sunday morning. The driver, it is said, was traveling at a high rate of speed and when he saw the train, he could not stop in time and crashed into the train between the locomotive tender and the first car.

Plantz suffered many deep cuts, one six inches long on the scalp, and the right hand and arm were badly lacerated. With him was Miss Charlotte Luskey, 20 years old of 8837 Hastings Ave., Chicago. She sustained a cut over the left eye, a bad cut on the left ear and cheek, right arm and left leg.

Dr. E. G. McMahon, local Rock Island physician was called and after giving the injured couple first aid, took them to Silver Cross hospital in Joliet.

The automobile which was badly wrecked was towed to Joliet by a wrecking company. The train which was hit by the auto, was a local passenger and was slowing down for the station when the accident occurred.

Green Garden Church Picnic

5,000 Persons Attend Joint Bands 4th of July Celebration

Fully 5,000 persons attended the joint Fourth of July celebration held under the auspices of the school bands of New Lenox, Frankfort, Mokena and Tinley Park at the Frankfort grove on Monday, July 5th.

PARADE STARTS CELEBRATION
The big celebration began with a parade in Frankfort. The bands, floats and marchers met at the Frankfort school grounds from where the parade started at one o'clock.

Henry Luehring, manager of Frankfort Grain Co., served as marshal of the day and headed the parade on foot. Following him came an automobile in which rode Mayor George Sangmeister of Frankfort, acting Mayor Wm. Semmler of Mokena, representing Mayor Harry F. Mall, Mayor Francis Harper of Tinley and Supervisor Fred Francis of New Lenox.

Next came the color guard of the Tinley Park Legion Post, the bands, Tinley PTA and 4-H Club marchers, floats, etc. The line of march lead thru the principle streets of Frankfort and back to the school grounds where the parade disbanded.

A very large crowd, in fact one of the largest seen in Frankfort in many years, thronged the streets to see the parade.

Immediately after the parade the festivities began in the grove half a mile north of Frankfort.

During the afternoon fully over a thousand cars were parked in the grove and by night parking space was at a premium and cars were parked on both sides of Keane avenue for blocks.

MASSED BANDS IN CONCERT

The festivities at the grove were opened by the bands sponsoring the affair. The Mokena and New Lenox bands directed by R. B. Wight each played a selection as a single group, as also did the Tinley and Frankfort bands under the direction of Charles Peters. Following this the four bands played in a massed band concert. The combined bands played two numbers each under the direction of R. B. Wight and two numbers under the baton of Mr. Peters.

The great crowd roundly applauded the bands.

PUNCH AND JUDY SHOW

Following the musical program, a Punch and Judy Show was staged by Harry Fetterer of Tinley Park. The number went over big and was repeated in the evening. Mr. Fetterer also put on a ventriloquist ballyho to advertise the various attractions on the grounds. There were concessions of various kinds.

The weather being ideal, the demand for eats and drinks was so great that the stands catering to this line were repeatedly sold out and new supplies had to be rushed in from Frankfort and Tinley.

The large crowd was congenial and good spenders. All booths were very liberally patronized and the total proceeds ran over $2,000.

A feature which was of much interest was a tumbling act put on by a Chicago Heights group.

The gathering brought many old time friends together who had not seen one another for many years. There was plenty of activity all afternoon and evening.

The following prizes were awarded to best representations and groups in the parade:

1st best representation Tinley Park 4-H Club $4; 2nd best representation, 2 cow boys and one cow girl Mr. Rothenberg and daughter, Tinley Park and Joe Scott, Frankfort $3.

1st most comical group, 1 prize $4.00, Truck loaded with animals. Frankfort Boys and girl - Lillie Wischover, Orval Schroeder, Loe Harnack, Chester Pfaff, Mr. Roan, Butch Pieper, Harold Deist.

2nd most comical group, 2nd prize $3.00, Tinley Park P. T. A.

Most comical individual, $1.00, Walter Marti, Joliet.

Best decorated bicycle $1 each. Tie between a boy from Crete and a girl from Mokena. Rose trimmed bicycle Babe Rinke, Mokena; flag trimmed bicycle, "Happy" Claussen, Crete.

Best doll buggy, Barbra Ann Bennett, Frankfort, $1.00.

Little sailor boy and his boat, George Sangmeister, Jr., Frankfort, $1.00.

In the parade decorated bicycles and doll buggies were features.

In the evening beginning at 7:30 o'clock dancing to the music of Gene Victor's orchestra was in order. The dance floor was filled to capacity with gay dancers.

An electric roaster was awarded to Mrs. Wm. Clemens of Tinley Park and an electric ironer to a Joliet woman.

A fine display of fireworks took place from 10 to 11 p. m.

The celebration proved that by a united co-operation of the communities worth while things can be accomplished.

Will Seek Rep. Renomination To Probate Clerk Office

Milton Sonntag

Milton Sonntag, present Will County Probate Clerk, has announced that he will be a candidate for renomination in next spring's primaries. Mr. Sonntag has made an excellent record since he has held this office and his host of friends feel he should be returned to this office.

Mr. Sonntag is well known in Mokena. He is the grandson of Patrick Brennan, one of the pioneer settlers of Mokena. Mr. Brennan was in the employ of the Rock Island railroad for many years.

Mr. Sonntag will be a candidate on the Republican ticket.

Visit Aquarium

Sixteen members of the Happy Hustlers 4-H Club of Frankfort, accompanied by Mrs. George Eisenbrandt and Mrs. George Elsner, spent Thursday July 1 in Chicago visiting the Field Museum and Shedd's Aquarium.

Will Hold Picnic

The annual Will County 4-H Club picnic which has been held on the Fred Francis farm for the past three years, will be held at the home of John Plesse Saturday.

A softball tournament will be held, the winner of which will represent Will County in the annual sport festival to be held later in the summer at the University of Illinois.

Refreshments will be served. Following the picnic supper a camp fire program will be presented which will include dancing and games.

Board O. K.'s New Treasurer's Bond

At the Mokena village board meeting Tuesday night, the village treasurer's bond changed hands, when Ona E. McGovney succeeded Otto A. Bartels. The bond of Mr. McGovney for $10,000 was approved by the board. The sureties on the bond are George Knudson and Edward Martie.

Mokena Opens War On Speeders

Mokena streets, and especially Wolf Road, have become speedways for local as well as out of town automobile drivers. In order to curb this menace to safety of children as well as older persons, the Mokena village board has granted permission to Deputy Sheriff Alfred Heiman to arrest speeders and bring them before Police Magistrate Albert Hentsch for trial. A number of Mokena automobile drivers are very reckless in their driving and a stiff fine might teach them a much needed lesson.

The public so thoroughly enjoyed the big affair that already requests have been heard that this celebration should be made an annual event with the towns surrounding joining. Not only does this spirit of cooperation make for more social enjoyment, but it also helps to make the people of these communities to better know and understand each other.

WELL KNOWN FRANKFORT RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Mary Stellwagen, nee, Beckstein, passed away Wednesday evening, July 7, in the home of her daughter Mrs. Albert H. Krusemark, with whom she has made her home the past three years.

Mrs. Stellwagen was born near Mokena, Ill., on April 20, 1851. She was baptised and confirmed in the St. John's Evangelical church of Mokena, in which church she was also united in marriage with Henry Stellwagen in 1871. After their marriage the family moved to Green Garden township and united in the membership with St. Peter's Evangelical church in Frankfort in which she remained an active member until her death.

Their union was blessed with three daughters and two sons of whom one son died in infancy. The husband and father was killed by a stroke of lightning in 1881, since which time the mother shouldered the responsibility of both father and mother.

The last years of her life were destined to be a time of suffering and after being critically ill for the past four weeks, death came as a relief from her suffering on Wednesday evening at the age of 86 years, 2 months, and 17 days.

She is survived by her three daughters Mrs. Christine Eickenberg, Miss Anna Stellwagen and Mrs. Albert H. Krusemark; one son Henry; three grand-children and one great grand-child.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon, July 10, 1937, at 2:30 o'clock, daylight saving time, from her daughter's home to the St. Peter's Evangelical church at 3:00 o'clock with Rev. G. S. Gerhold officiating. Burial will take place in Pleasant Hill cemetery.

Baer, Chicago; Westfall Club, German World War Veterans, American Legion Post, Chicago; Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Joliet, County Judge Geo. N. Blatt of Joliet will speak.

The famed "German Gemuetlichkeit" will prevail thruout the festivities. A jolly social time is assured for all.

There will be various concessions on the grounds and a carnival entertainment will be a feature. In the evening there will be a torch light parade for the children. A radio is also to be awarded. Dancing will be free. Be sure and come for a delightful outing and social time.

Mokena To Play St. Cyril at Mokena

Troy scored three runs in the eighth inning of last Sunday's game to break a 3 to 3 score. Mokena failed to score in the ninth inning. Heavy hitters for the day were E. Bormet with three safeties and C. Bormet and Yunker with two each.

This Sunday, July 11th, Mokena will play St. Cyrils Y. M. C. at Hayden's diamond. The last time these two teams met the game was tied in the ninth inning and was called because of darkness. Sunday's game will probably be a very close contest. Don't miss this game as the team will travel to Joliet, July 18 and 25. The first home game will probably be August 1.

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Reyburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure by the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to "go stepping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, her brother, Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, get friendly with Brooke and try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Reyburn announces on Thanksgiving eve that she has been invited to England. Sam and Lucette decide to move in with Brooke and Sam plans to produce a new play locally.

CHAPTER IV

Brooke noticed Mark Trent's quick glance about as he entered the dining-room at Lookout House. She felt an instant of self-consciousness as she took the seat against the variegated yellow background of tall mimosas and acacias which filled a broad bay-window, which her mother refused with a quick shake of her head and a smile. She immediately forgot herself in pride of her sporting family. Each one of her was gay, so determined to do his or her share to make the party a real festivity. Holidays were hard days since her father's death, but always someone who was alone had been invited to keep the feast with them. Thinking of others helped immeasurably to bridge the sense of loss, Celia Reyburn argued.

The dinner was a success. Brooke breathed a little sigh of relief as she rose from the table. This Thanksgiving dinner had been the first entertaining in her own home. Of course the guests had been her family and Mark Trent only, but she had felt pride in having it a success.

As she served coffee from the massive silver tray in the living-room, she glanced at Mark Trent standing before the fire. With his elbow on the mantel, he was talking to Celia Reyburn seated in a corner of the couch. The orchids he had brought her added the perfect touch to her amethyst frock. Orchids for her mother, gardenias for Lucette, and deep fragrant purple violets for his hostess. He had said it with flowers. A lavish gentleman. Had Henri turned chalky as he had announced dinner, or had she imagined it? He had stared at Mark Trent as if seeing an unwelcome apparition.

With a groan of repletion Sam pulled himself out of a deep chair.

"Boy, let's get out and walk! I feel like a stuffed, trussed turkey. Why do we eat so much more on Thanksgiving? Because we haven't any sense. Notice that I'm acquiring the analytic method, question and answer. Anybody here got the energy to take the shore walk?"

"I'll go with you, Sammy," Celia Reyburn smiled at her tall son. "Elaine Jaffrey is a great hiker; she will probably walk me all over the British Isles. I must get in practice. Just wait until I change my shoes."

"Boy, I'm glad we have one sport in the family. I'll bet Lucette has a heavy date, and is expecting someone. Coming, Brooke? Coming, Mr. Trent?"

"Mark to you, I hope, Sam. Do come, Miss Reyburn," Mark Trent urged. "It's a grand day. After hours of storm, there is enough wind to make the surf worth looking at."

"Worth looking at" were colorless words to express the grandeur of the shore, Brooke thought, as, standing on a jutting crag, holding on her beret with one hand, skirts blowing, she looked down at the driving current, cold and stealthy in places, in others foaming and tossing white-edged green waves against ledges transformed by the magic of the slanting sun into rusty copper, dark brown in the crevices. Spray, diaphanous as a mist from a giant atomizer, iridescent as jeweled malines, shimmered in the light. Beyond the surf a dozen lavender winged gulls floated on the water. An amber green wave out-lashed its predecessors, hissed, roared, broke against a ledge, and showered Brooke with crystal spray.

"Oh!" Instinctively she clutched Mark Trent's arm. "It—it took my breath!"

He drew her back to the path, pulled out his handkerchief, and wiped her wet face.

"I should have known better than to let you stand there."

"It wasn't your fault. I adored it. It made me feel as if every inch of me had been electrified. Why is it that when we are together I need to be rescued from difficulties? I want to thank you for—"

"Please, don't."

She wondered at the embarrassed fierceness of his voice.

"I won't, except to add that I know I owe my life to you. There, that's over. I promise never to mention it again."

Spurred by the stimulating air, she took her courage in both hands and plunged.

"Won't you please be friends? I didn't know Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane had any money, really I didn't, Mr. Trent."

In the instant that she waited for his answer, sun, sea, the roar of the surf were blotted out. Only his straight-gazing eyes meeting hers were real. They touched her heart, quickly, passionately. Then Mark Trent thrust his handkerchief into his pocket.

"Forget that Mr. Trent stuff. Being legatees in the same estate—my aunt left me a bank account, you know—ought to make us friends, oughtn't it?" His voice was light, but she sensed a tinge of irony. "We'd better keep going if we are to walk around the point before dark. Your mother and Sam went on some time ago. What did she mean when she spoke of hiking over the British Isles?"

"She is going to England to visit her college classmate. Of course, I'm crazy to have her go, but—but I didn't realize how precious she was until I thought of her being so far away."

"Are your brother and sister going?"

"No. They are to be with me while Mother is away. I am so glad. It will give me heaps to do. I'm not used to this poison-ivy leisure that looked so alluring before I had tried it. My life was so full before—"

"Before you had Lookout House stuffed down your throat, you mean? I don't see why the dickens Aunt Mary Amanda tied that string to her legacy, forced you to live in this house."

"It wasn't a string, and she didn't force me. I like old towns, and I love Lookout House."

"My mistake." Trent's laugh turned to a frown. "What are the town fathers thinking of to allow a gas station stuck out on this road? Has that house been sold?"

Brooke promptly defended the brilliant equipment in front of a small white cottage.

"I don't know who owns the place, but doubtless the town fathers were thinking of giving the poor man who has started the filling-station another chance. I heard that he had money, lost it, began to drink too much, and that a friend set him up in business here hoping to steady him."

"Who told you the story of his life?"

"Henri."

"Henri! Does he know the man?"

"He will have to answer that question. He asked me to buy gas at the new filling-station, and I do to encourage the poor fellow to keep on trying to make good."

"How about encouraging honest Mike Cassidy who started the garage at the end of the causeway years ago and has served the public faithfully and unselfishly? He has a wife and five children to support."

Why did his voice rouse opposition in her, Brooke wondered. She had doubts herself lately as to the permanency of the filling-station owner's reform. Twice when she had stopped for gas, a young Irish girl had reported the boss as "sick" and she had wondered if he were backsliding. Mark the Magnificent need not know that, however.

"Don't you believe in helping a man to come back?" she asked crisply.

"I do, most decidedly, but I believe also in helping an honest hard-working man like Cassidy, who has the strength of character to leave drink alone, to keep his kids in shoes. Come on. We are almost quarreling. Why should you and I fight over a filling-station owner?"

"You're right, when we have so many other things about which to disagree."

Brooke's brown eyes met his, intent and darkly gray; wistfulness tinged her voice as she urged:

"Speaking of disagreeing—will you please behave like a sensible person and take the family treasures which belong to you?"

"Aunt Mary Amanda left them to you."

"I know, but it isn't right for me to have them, and what's more, I don't need or want them. I'd rather go without rings all my life than wear one of those gorgeous things she left, which are rightfully yours. Mr. Stewart has put all the jewelry in a bank vault for you. I have Mother's lovely china and glass and furniture which have been in storage since our home was broken up. I've had everything which belonged to your family moved to the chauffeur's apartment over the garage. There seems to be very little silver. Perhaps your aunt gave it to you?"

"Silver! Very little silver! She had the Trent service which came originally from England and any number of beautiful pieces. That silver is a family tradition. Where is it? She didn't give it to me. What does Stewart say about it?"

"He thought that because of the epidemic of crime reported in the newspapers, Mrs. Dane might have become timid about keeping valuables in the house and had it stored in a bank. But he found no receipt for it among her papers. Do you think she sold it?"

"Sold it! No, I'll bet—" he broke off abruptly. "See that great rock sticking up off shore? I used to imagine it the peak of a submerged island rising from the sea."

"Perhaps it is. 'Islands arise, grow old and disappear.' That isn't original. Sam has taken the title for his comedy from it. The first night I spent at Lookout House I was kept awake by the wailing of that distant siren. Now I don't notice it."

"You'll notice it if you stay here during the winter as Jed told me you were planning to do. There goes the sun behind the city!"

They walked in silence back to Lookout House. On the threshold of the living-room she stopped in startled unbelief. Jerry Field stood by the fire talking to her mother. Who was the brown-haired girl in blue beside Lucette?

"Couldn't wait for you to send out At Home cards, Brooke," Jerry Field greeted jauntily. "You remember that you said I could come to Lookout House when you were settled, don't you? I wanted to meet your family, wanted them to know that I'm in your stag line for sure."

His eyes flashed beyond her to Mark Trent on the threshold. There was laughter in his voice and a hint of challenge. Before she could answer, he commanded:

"Come hither, Daphne, and meet our neighbor. This is my sister."

"Neighbor!" Brooke smiled at the brown-haired girl as she welcomed her with a cordial handshake. "I would know that you were Jerry's sister, you look so like him; but is the neighbor stuff a joke?"

"No, Miss Reyburn, we really are staying on the Point."

Daphne Field's smile disclosed small teeth as perfect in color and size as a row of matched pearls. She turned to Sam.

"I've heard that you are the coming playwright, Mr. Reyburn, that you have a touch of O'Neill's tragic outlook, a seasoning of Kaufman's humor, and a hint of Coward's sophistication."

Sam grinned. "Is that original, or did you get it from the Times?"

The girl pouted:

"Of course it's original. Why, Mark!"

Daphne Field's breathless exclamation, the radiance of her face revealed so much that Brooke had looked for an instant at a naked heart. Trent came forward. Was the firelight playing pranks, or had his face gone dark with color?

"Where did you drop from, Daphne? How are you, Field?"

Why didn't someone say something and smash the strained silence, Brooke wondered impatiently. It was as if the firelight had cast a spell and tied all their tongues. Her mother's eyes were on Daphne Field as she thoughtfully pulled her gloves through her hands. Sam, back to the room, was poking at the parrot. He hated emotional scenes—off the stage. The atmosphere fairly quivered with things unsaid. Lucette came to life.

"Turn on the lights, Sam, this gloom may be artistic, but it gives me the merry-pranks. This has turned out to be meet-your-neighbor day, hasn't it? Who's the dame in the floppy hat, Brooke, who looks like a super-animated Bo-peep, and carries a cane which easily could be mistaken for a shepherd's crook? There's the chance of a lifetime for you to get in a little missionary work as clothes adviser; you'd better begin with a streamline diet. She thinks everything here, including Mother, 'charming.'"

God calls men, commissions and uses them to carry out his plans and purposes in the earth. What a great truth that is and how it glorifies the destiny of man to know that it is divinely appointed. As Joseph Parker beautifully points out, the experience of Moses in Midian was a direct dealing with God, whereas we who may not be able to "see the fountain" must "be content to drink at the stream," but should always remember that the stream flows from that same fountain.

"Every man should put to himself the questions—What is my destiny? What does God mean me to be and to do in the world? . . . It is a most pitiful thing that a man should read of Moses being divinely called . . . to a special work" and fail to realize "that God has a special work for every man to do." Let us have a care that we do not "so pervert and misinterpret circumstances as to press them into a justification of self-will," rather than recognize them as "destiny which is beckoning us to duty."

For our instruction and guidance we consider then the story of the call of this outstanding leader of Israel. It presents him as a true servant of God—one who was

I. Personally Equipped.

While it is a blessed truth that God will use any man who surrenders himself to his control and guidance no matter how limited that man's ability and training may be, it is also true that, other things being equal, the man with the best equipment will be the most useful servant.

God gave Moses a unique preparation. He was first of all a Hebrew, born among the people that he was to lead. He knew the luxury and all the cultural advantages of the Egyptian court (Acts 7:22), with the safeguard of training by his own mother as his nurse. He observed at first hand the oppression of his people and made a self-willed and impulsive effort to deal with the problem. The result was that he had a "postgraduate" course of instruction and discipline in the wilderness where he spent forty years in the school of experience.

The leaders of God in our day need training. Some best receive it in schools, in Christian colleges, seminaries, and Bible schools true to the faith. Others prepare in the home, the church, and in the "universities of hard knocks"—as someone has called the school of experience. Perhaps the best preparation is a balanced combination of the two, school and experience. But the important thing is to be prepared for God's call.

II. Spiritually Qualified.

Moses was a man who knew God. Had he been a worldly man he would have been but curious of the phenomenon of the burning bush. But note how alert and reverent he was and how immediately responsive to the instructions and the call of God.

All the training and preparation in the world is worse than useless in God's service apart from that spiritual qualification that comes from true regeneration and dedication to him. There is no more pathetic sight than a spiritually powerless church worker "going through the motions" of service for Christ. If we are in that condition we may be sure that we deceive no one but ourselves. Let us seek God in confession and in glad acceptance of his provision for both our redemption and our sanctification.

III. Divinely Called.

Moses was called (v. 4), commissioned (vv. 6-10), and clad with divine authority (vv. 11-12) for his great task.

God calls his servants to different responsibilities and in different ways, but the important thing is that we should know that we are in his will and that we are answering his call.

No man or woman has any right to choose full-time Christian service simply as a desirable vocation, for it is a divine calling. Quite unscriptural was the attitude of the man who said that in a quiet woodland nook he had faced life's realities and had decided "to bet his life" on the preaching of the gospel.

On Giving of Alms

In giving of thy alms, inquire not so much into the person, as his necessity. God looks not so much upon the merits of him that requires, as into the manner of him that relieves; if the man deserve not, thou has given it to humanity.

Sense of Humor

A sense of humor enables us not so much to laugh at the people who provoke us, as to laugh at ourselves for being so easily provoked. —Robert Power.

The Curse of Progress

Strange Actions
A little girl sitting in church watching a wedding, suddenly exclaimed:
"Mummy, has the lady changed her mind?"
"What do you mean?" the mother asked.
"Why," replied the child, "she went up the aisle with one man and came back with another."—Atlanta Constitution.

Two Theories
"How do you account for Bliggins' nervousness?"
"I don't know which theory to select. Those who like him say that his dyspepsia gives him a bad disposition and those who don't say that his bad disposition gives him dyspepsia."

Estimate of Worth
The young dandy was about to make a start in business.
"I suppose," he drawled, "you will pay me what I'm worth."
"Better than that," said the head of the firm, "we will even give you a small salary."

OFF SCHEDULE

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

A Warm Meal—Instead of putting food into the oven to keep hot for late-comers, cover it closely with a tin or basin, and set it over a saucepan of hot water. It will keep hot without drying.

Brighter Pudding—Two teaspoonsful of marmalade stirred into a ground rice pudding just before it is cooked will give it the delightful flavour of fresh orange, without the bother of grating peel. The kiddies will love it.

For Scratched Furniture—Furniture scratches may be hidden by painting with iodine and then rubbing with furniture polish.

Washing Flannels—Next time you are washing flannels or woollens put about a teaspoonful of olive oil in the water. It will keep them beautifully soft.

A Curtain Tip—Casement curtains will hang in even folds if small bags of silver sand are sewn to the corners of the lower-edge hems. The sand adds just enough weight to the curtains to prevent them rolling at the edges and these "weights" can be washed with the curtains.

To Keep Icing on Cake—Sift a little flour over the top of the cake before icing it and the icing will not run off.

Cleaning Silverware—When your silverware becomes tarnished, place it in an aluminum saucepan and cover with hot water in which potatoes have been boiled. Leave for an hour, then rinse and it will look like new, without the usual cleaning.

Double Duty for Soap—When I buy toilet soap I put it away among the sheets and pillow cases, to which it gives an attractive fresh fragrance and, of course, the soap is all the better for keeping.

National Birthdays

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

The United States has been described as "the only great country with a known birthday."

Many Americans undoubtedly recalled that famous statement as they participated in recent Independence Day celebrations throughout the nation.

And many probably wondered whether America, as a nation, was indulging in its anniversary in that bit of self-study and self-searching which a birthday usually inspires.

Certainly July Fourth offered a splendid opportunity for America to compare its national spirit today with the hopes and the aspirations of its founders.

Does the spirit of liberty, we could ask ourselves, glow as brightly in our own hearts as it did in the breasts of the men who in 1776 pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to its perpetuation?

Does a sense of personal responsibility for government still animate our citizens as it did those who made sacrifice after sacrifice, first to win, and then to build, a nation?

Does the fierce pride in democracy—in government by the people—still dominate our citizens' thought as it did the generation which faced death and privation rather than suffer despotic rule?

Those were the aims of our nation in its earliest youth. Are they still the dominant ideas of that nation on its more mature birthdays? Are we still fighting to preserve those high ideals?

If the answer is "Yes," then we can continue to count our birthdays with pride. If it is "No," then we are in the tragic situation of the man who wistfully recalls the dreams of his youth, only to realize how he has fallen short of all their splendid aspirations.

Iron Springs to Riches

The hairsprings in watches are made by drawing a piece of steel through a hole in a diamond. A pound of steel, worth only a few dollars, can make $300,000 worth of watch hairsprings.

Plenty of Trouble

"De landlord has his troubles," said Uncle Eben. "He wants his rent to help keep de tax collector off his neck."

Benefits From Forests

The benefits from forests are many. The most important are: Protection from soil erosion; retention of rainfall by the spongy layer of leaf mold on the forest floor; lessening of the occurrence of floods; purification of the air by the inhalation of carbon dioxide and exhalation of oxygen by the leaves of the trees; improvement of fishing and hunting; the profitable use of lands which are of no value except for forests.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS

Legislature Closes In Wild Session; A Political Circus

Springfield, Ill., July 1, 1937.

Dear Mr. Editor:

As I walked down Capitol avenue this morning at 2 o'clock, Chicago time, with fire crackers and other explosives heralding the adjournment sine die of the 60th regular session of the General Assembly, the words of the prayer "we have left undone those things that we ought to have done and we have done those things which we ought not to have done," so regularly recited in the church of which I am a member seemed to me to best apply to what many believe to have been the most bitter and disorganized session in the history of the State.

When, after visits with members of the Assembly, the press and representatives of organizations I finally pulled into bed, weary from a day's work of eighteen hours except for short recesses for meals, a day duplicated except for slightly fewer hours many times the past two weeks, echoes of endless roll calls of the 151 members of the houses reading like this: Adamowski, Adduci, George B. Allen, Henry Allen, Alpinar, Ruth, etc., or the pleas of the speaker "Will the members please be in their seats" or the demands of the members, "Mr. Speaker, may I have order, this is a very important bill," prevented sleep which I needed badly.

Sleep refusing to come, I naturally meditated on the events of the session which began on January 6th.

Regrettably I thought of the measures left undone such as the driver's license which became hopelessly involved in a political patronage battle, the State School Board bill which involved work for so many interested groups the reduction of taxes, a more efficient solution of the relief problem, permanent registration of voters for down state and permissive legislation for city manager government.

I hoped that industry would hold up under some of the additional burdens placed upon it and that labor would find the new laws which they received as advantageous as they predicted when they urged their passage.

I meditated long upon the question of why all school appropriation bills were held up until after all the other departments of the state government had received their appropriations for the biennium with increases for wages and salaries running into large amounts while the state school distributive fund could not even secure an increase of one million dollars a year (this was my amendment which was offered as a last resort after all others had failed). I thought of high schools which do not receive state aid and hoped that some of them would be able to open in September. Any increase in the school distributive fund was to have been given to high schools. Except for some school finance bills which certain districts wanted constructive school legislation was certainly lacking in the session.

Finally, Mr. Editor, the echoes of "Adamowski, Adduci, George B. Allen, Henry Allen, etc.," drowned out all regrets, remorse and hopes but not before I thought gratefully of your kindness in printing my

Tinley Park Plays At Oak Forest

In a non-league encounter last Sunday the Parkers suffered their third setback of the year at the hands of the Chicago Buddies. After enjoying a safe lead most of the way the Tinley defense suddenly let up and a late inning rally staged by the Buddies gave them a 7-6 lead. The undaunted Parkers woke up in the last half of the eighth and managed to tie the count at 7 all. Neither team was able to score in the ninth. In the first half of the tenth the Buddies pushed over a run which was to prove the winning margin. Although Tinley filled the sacks without an out in their half of the tenth, they were unable to score.

The game was stopped by rain in the third inning and after a half hour was resumed on a muddy field. Several new faces were tried in the lineup and rewarded Manager Baldwin with outstanding performances. Sorenson playing second base paced the Tinley hitters with four for five. McGovney caught a steady game, while Craig, Tinley's big left hander, in his first start of the season hurled a good game.

SEEING THINGS AT NIGHT

Photographing lightning presents no problem other than patiently waiting for the flash with the lens open, the camera stationary. At the top—A night picture made with an exposure of 25 minutes at f.8 on chrome type film. It's probable that a shorter exposure would have sufficed.

OUTDOORS at night you will find many a good, perfectly "gettable" shot. Lightning, for example, takes its own picture very neatly. And the procedure is simple.

As a lightning storm approaches, place the camera (even a simple box type outfit will do) on a window sill or some other convenient perch, aim it at the storm center, open the shutter for a time exposure—and then wait for things to happen.

If you are lucky, a bolt of lightning will soon come within the ken of your camera. Then close the shutter, wind the film to the next number, and try again. Lightning pictures are doubly effective if they include nearby buildings or trees.

Picturing illuminated buildings, electric signs, and other night-blooming subjects is simply a matter of time exposure. The camera, of course, must be stationary. Length of exposure depends on the amount and color of light on your subject, and the kind of film used. The chrome type of film is excellent for outdoor night time exposures, as it minimizes flare from strong, exposed lights. Usually, you'll find exposures of from two to five minutes adequate (unless you stop the lens' way down; then you'll need longer time). And if your subject is bathed in colored lights, especially any reddish hue, give it about double the time you would otherwise use.

Real moonlight pictures are something to point to with pride. Moonlight will make pictures just as sunlight does, but being many times weaker, exposures must be very considerably increased. The simplest way to calculate a moonlight exposure is to give 25 minutes for each 1/100-second exposure that would be given the same scene in sunlight. Suppose it is a landscape with a dark-toned object in the immediate foreground. The sunlight exposure would be 1/25 at f.11. Then by the light of a full moon with sky clear throughout, it would be 100 minutes at the same stop. This could be cut down to 50 minutes with stop f.8. Without nearby dark-toned object, the exposure can be cut down to 25 minutes at f.8; for distant landscapes, to 10 or 15 minutes.

If a sort of daylight effect is desired, then exposures must be multiplied by four.

Warning: Don't include the moon itself in your picture unless you want it to show a nice bright "baloney" sausage hanging in the sky. Like the sun, the moon "do" move.

John van Guilder.

Lester Brockelhurst, aged twenty-three, paroled convict held at Leno, Ark., for the murder there of Victor A. Gates, Little Rock land owner, was indicted at Rockford for the murder last March 31 of J. Albin Theander, Stillman Valley tailor.

Mrs. Marie Taylor, twenty-eight, of Chicago, was sentenced by Judge George B. Weiss in Safety court to serve 90 days in the House of Correction for leaving the scene of an accident. It was the severest penalty ever imposed on a woman here for a traffic violation.

Deer Sleeps in Bed, Goes to School

Early to bed and early to rise (not TOO early) is the rule for Pete, the pet of the Raymond Beckett family in Barnegat, N. J. "After we feed him, he goes upstairs and takes a nap, spending as much as half a day in bed," says Mrs. Beckett. "Last year he didn't miss a single day following the children to school. He likes pork and hot dogs and bananas." He is shown above attending school and (inset) taking his daily siesta.

HOW OL' MISTAH BUZZARD
WARMS HIS TOES

OFTEN and often had Peter Rabbit wondered how Ol' Mistah Buzzard and all his other feathered friends who had flown away to the far away south at the first hint that Jack Frost was on his way to the Green Meadows spent the long winter. It seemed to Peter that the South must be a very wonderful and very strange place. He was not at all sure that he would like it. It must be very nice not to have to worry about finding enough to eat, and yet—well, Peter did have lots of fun in the snow. It seemed to him that all those little people who went away certainly missed a great deal. Now, Winsome Bluebird had returned from that far away South with the good news that Mistress Spring was not far behind, and Winsome had promised to tell him all the news of Ol' Mistah Buzzard and the other friends.

"You see," began Winsome, "Ol' Mistah Buzzard was born and brought up in the South, where it is always warm, and he just can't stand cold weather. No, sir, he can't stand cold weather. Why, weather that you and I would call comfortable will make him shiver and shake. That is why he wasn't ready to come up with me. Now, I come ahead of Mistress Spring, but Ol' Mistah Buzzard won't start until he is sure that Mistress Spring has been here some time, and he will be sure not to have cold feet."

"Cold feet!" cried Peter. "Who ever heard of such a thing! Why, I run around on the snow and ice all winter long and I never have cold feet."

"Well, Ol' Mistah Buzzard does," replied Winsome Bluebird. "Yes, sir, he is always complaining about cold feet. You know, he hasn't any shoes or stockings like you, Peter, so between his bare feet and his bald head he has, or thinks he has, a great deal to worry about every time there is a cool day, and they sometimes have cool days even way down South. Then you will always find Ol' Mistah Buzzard warming his toes."

Peter scratched his head in a funny way. "If you please, Winsome, how does he warm his toes?" asked Peter. "I never see him warming his toes when he is up here. He's always sailing round and round way up in the blue, blue sky or else sitting on a dead tree in the Green Forest. I've never heard him complain of cold feet or seen him try to warm his toes."

"Of course, you haven't!" replied Winsome. "He doesn't have cold feet then, because it's summer time. It's just as you say, if you don't see him up in the blue, blue sky you are sure to find him on that old dead tree. But down South it is different. If you want to see him there and he isn't way up in the blue, blue sky trying to get nearer to Mr. Sun so as to warm his bald head, why you just look for him on a toe-warmer."

Peter's eyes seemed to fairly pop out with curiosity. "What's a toe-warmer?" he demanded. "I never heard of such a thing. What does it look like?"

Winsome Bluebird chuckled softly. "Have you ever been up by Farmer Brown's house?" he asked. Peter nodded.

"Then you've seen that thing on the roof out of which smoke sometimes comes," continued Winsome. Again Peter nodded. "Well," continued Winsome, "if Farmer Brown's house was down South that thing out of which smoke comes would be one of Ol' Mistah Buzzard's toe-warmer."

Peter looked sharply at Winsome to see if he really meant what he said. "Doesn't anybody live in those houses down South?" he asked suspiciously.

"Of course," replied Winsome. "If they didn't how could Mistah Buzzard warm his toes?"

"And he isn't afraid?" persisted Peter, as if it was very hard to believe.

"Afraid!" cried Winsome. "Why, he hasn't anything to be afraid of. Mr. Buzzard is thought a great deal of, a very great deal of, in the South, and no one would hurt him for the world. So every house has a toe-warmer for him, which is very nice for him. And you won't see him back here until it is so warm that he forgets all about cold feet," concluded Winsome Bluebird. © T. W. CLEANING TILE WORK

I HAVE not kept count of the number of housekeepers who have asked me how to clean white tiles on a bathroom floor. They explain that they have scoured and scrubbed, but that floor still looks soiled. As dirt on a tile floor does not soak in, but remains on the surface, scouring will take it off. So when I hear of a white tile floor that cannot be cleaned, I know the reason; that the tile is of a low quality and that the grayish look is from dark particles actually in the tile. There is no remedy for this short of the replacement of the floor. High quality floor tiles contain no dark particles, which is one of the reasons for the quality. Quality drops when the materials of which tiles are made are less carefully selected.

Rubbing with steel wool will show whether or not it is surface dirt that gives a grayish look to a floor. This will take off dirt to the bare tile, and if a gray tone remains, nothing more can be done.

There is little difference in the wearing qualities of low grade and high grade white floor tile; one will last as long as the other. It is the clearness of the white tones that makes the difference. One remedy, as I have said, is to take up the old tile and to lay a new floor of better quality. As an alternative, one owner laid linoleum over the old tile, cementing it down on a layer of felt.

Wall tile differ from floor tile in being finished with a high glaze. The glaze repels dirt, and is easily cleaned. Even so, with the steam in a bathroom, and possibly grease and smut in the air, there may be a dulling, and in particular, the cement in the joints will darken. This can be completely removed and the cement whitened by wiping the tiles from time to time with a solution of one of the bleaching liquids which can be obtained at a grocer's. In a number of households that I know, it is the routine to treat tiles in bathrooms and kitchens in this way at least once a month.

Question—I have a leather covered chair. On the edges, the leather is beginning to look dry. What can I use to keep it from drying out?

Answer—There is a preparation on the market that is intended for that purpose; you should be able to get it at a leather store. It is widely used for preserving leather book bindings; you might get it at a book store. Your local public library may have it. Otherwise, wipe the leather with a half and half mixture of castor oil and pure neats-foot oil; after a little time for soaking in, wipe the leather dry. This preservative will work better on wet leather than on dry; so before applying, go over the leather with a wet cloth. For a glossy finish, wipe the leather when dry with beaten white of egg.

THERE'S A GOOD
ROADBy DOUGLAS MALLOCH
(Suggested by the hotel barber at Uhrichsville, Ohio.)

THERE'S a good road north, and a good road south,
And a good road east or west,
There's a train at noon that'll leave here soon,
If you like the railroad best.
So when someone says that there's somethin' wrong
With the town, the way it's run,
Then I don't see why he don't say good-by,
And go hunt for a better one.

If he says back home where he used to live
That the town was simply great,
Well, I'd go back there if I had the fare,
And if not, I'd flip a freight.
Or he's heard some town is a right good town,
That it's got this whole place beat;
Well, it can't be far if he's got a car,
If he ain't, he's got two feet.

So if someone thinks that the town's no good,
I think he's a fool to stay.
If he don't like what this here town has got,
Then here's all I got to say:

"There ain't a man that'll hold you here
If you like some new place best;
North or south of town not a bridge is down,
There's a good road east or west."

CREATIVE ability is one of Destiny's most valuable gifts.

The skilled and helpfully minded palmist may often stimulate latent creative ability to constructive activities along worthwhile lines which the fortunate possessor has been indolent in following. Analyze the third finger with a view to explaining, broadly at least, the possible outlets for the creative urge as indicated by its conformation as a type.

The Psychic Finger of Brilliance.

Here is a type of third finger which, unless your analysis is made with thoroughness, may be confused with the Inventive type discussed in Lesson 39. The reason for this is that it leans toward the fourth finger much after the fashion of the Inventive type. In the Psychic Finger of Brilliance this characteristic is far more pronounced, however, and with the hand extended wide, the entire finger is found to lie much closer to the fourth finger. The Psychic type of third finger, despite its tilt toward the fourth finger, is usually quite straight. Its length is marked, and its tip is always even with and sometimes well above the tip of the second finger. The entire finger is rather bony in structure, with knuckles somewhat knobby and the spaces between them bound in or "corseted." The nail is usually long and somewhat pear-shaped, and is always well set. Under backward pressure, a peculiar resilient tension is felt.

1. No definite height is set. Barnum, at one time, specified that no one less than 7 feet 2 inches tall should be engaged for exhibition as a giant.
2. The North star is brighter than the sun, the former giving forth about 525 times as much light as our own sun.
3. According to the modern theory, the velocity of electricity in a wire is the same as that of light—186,284 miles per second.
4. The Hawaiian Islands are not a possession of the United States—they have the status of a Territory and are an integral part of the United States.
5. The deepest oil well ever drilled in this country is located at Bakersfield, Calif., and is 10,440 feet deep.
6. The tears you see the actors and actresses shed in the movies aren't real tears. They are drops of glycerin.

of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

DOAN'S PILLS

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—I believe it was President Grover Cleveland who made the very epigrammatic statement that "I will take care of my enemies; but please save me from my friends." The distinguished Democrat, Mr. Cleveland, recognized one of the gravest dangers that besets politicians and it was in this connection that he made the famous remark.

Lately, I have been thinking that President Roosevelt is getting into the spot—if, indeed, he is not already behind the eight-ball—where he must have some protection from his friends. He faces a condition with which some observers fear he may not be able to deal as successfully as has been his record.

The thing that has put Mr. Roosevelt in a bad political spot is the outburst of Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania. Governor Earle, it was, who burst forth recently with a declaration that Mr. Roosevelt must run for a third term. There are "no men in the Democratic party or any other party who reach knee-high stature mentally or morally to Franklin D. Roosevelt," according to Governor Earle's appraisal of the present Executive. Governor Earle's record in Pennsylvania is that of an avid New Dealer. He has followed the Roosevelt footsteps in every specification and he has maintained a constant gunfire of chatter in support of the President and his policies.

The activities of the Pennsylvania governor have been so constant that it led one observer to remark the other day that Governor Earle apparently wanted to be the first man on the Roosevelt bandwagon for 1940. This, of course, had reference to the priority given in political appointments after Mr. Roosevelt became President to those Democrats who had been supporters of Mr. Roosevelt before the Chicago convention that nominated him.

But instead of being flattered by the pronouncement by the agile Pennsylvania governor, I hear from authentic sources that the President was somewhat embarrassed. Certainly, a good many of the New Deal wheelhorses are embarrassed because they can see how the Earle declaration may be used to explode various things politically as Mr. Roosevelt goes through his current term.

However that picture may develop, the fact remains that no President ever has served a third term in the United States. It is a precedent established by George Washington and rigidly adhered to. Thus to have "my friend George" declare Mr. Roosevelt in the market for a third term at this particular time constitutes a bad political error. This is true because at the moment there are more cries of personal dictatorship being voiced in this country than has happened since congress gave the President all of the extraordinary powers that he holds.

There is, however, another side to the story concerning Governor Earle. There are many who do not believe Governor Earle is stupid, politically. These persons hold the conviction that the Pennsylvania governor knows exactly what he is doing in promoting Mr. Roosevelt for a third term at this time. Their reasoning is to the effect that it will be impossible to renominate and reelect President Roosevelt for a third time, however much the President may want the job again. This same group contends that it would be fatal to the liberal movement for Mr. Roosevelt to take any steps in this direction although there are a goodly number of people who are convinced that he wants to break this precedent as he has broken many others.

In consequence, according to this line of reasoning, Governor Earle is playing his own game of politics. Hoping that the lightning may strike Governor Earle of Pennsylvania, Governor Earle is promoting Franklin Roosevelt for the job that Governor Earle wants.

It is plain to see that, by urging renomination and re-election of President Roosevelt, Governor Earle avoids the barbs and bludgeons that would be certain to come his way if he were to admit that he is a candidate thus far in advance of 1940. Someone suggested that the governor wanted Mr. Roosevelt to be the objective of the brickbats until that happy day when the President would step aside and label Governor Earle as the crown prince of the New Deal.

However, in talking about 1940, there are basketsful of men who would be most willing to dedicate their lives for four or eight years in the White House that they could perform the great service of carrying on the principles laid down by Franklin Roosevelt. It will be a great sacrifice, of course, for most of them to leave their present jobs and run for the presidency. But a good many of them already have let it be known that they are prepared to make this terrific sacrifice in order to serve their country.

I do not attempt to enumerate all of them. In any discussion of current politics, however, one cannot overlook such men as Henry Wallace, now secretary of agriculture, or Governor Murphy of Michigan or Paul McNutt, now high commissioner for the United States to the Philippine commonwealth. One must not forget the ambitions of Governor Davey of Ohio, or Senator Barkley of Kentucky—all good New Dealers and true. Then, I think, one ought not omit reference to Jesse Jones, chairman of the gigantic Federal Reconstruction Finance corporation, who would leave his vast business interests, if necessary, to serve in the White House.

Nor would I be fair to all of the budding candidates if I omitted reference to John L. Lewis who has been claiming such yeoman service in behalf of the working men through the Committee for Industrial Organization which is violently antagonistic to the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Lewis, of course, will deny that he ever intends to desert labor even for the presidency, but there are a good many people who think that Mr. Lewis has some little thought concealed in his heart—something of a wish or a hope that he, too, might find himself in the direct path of the political lightning from the Democratic national convention in 1940.

I do not know now, nor do I think anyone else knows, what the relative strength is among these various gentlemen who are exhibiting signs of a willingness to serve the nation as the Democratic candidate.

Most of those who do me the honor of reading these columns undoubtedly have had varying opinions as to why President Roosevelt held the famous love feast on the island in Chesapeake bay at the end of June. From conversations with Democratic friends in the house of representatives, I am quite convinced that not all of those who were invited to the Jefferson Island club for the meeting with the President were happy over the results. Of course, as everyone knows, the three-day session which the President had with Democrat senators and representatives was intended to placate all of the little ills and disagreements that have arisen. These congressmen with whom I have discussed the affair were not so sure that the President accomplished his purpose.

But I am quite convinced that the real purpose Mr. Roosevelt had in holding a love feast lies much deeper. I believe that he foresees the very difficulties that I mentioned earlier, namely, the dangers of a full list of candidates for the nomination in 1940. Mr. Roosevelt is too good a politician not to move early as leader of his party to protect against that sort of thing. By dropping words in these free conferences and by making suggestions concerning the general political situation, the President was enabled to approach the problem that he foresees without disclosing too much of his hand. Only time will tell how he has succeeded.

In the meantime, one may properly call attention to the situation that has developed at the capitol, particularly in the senate. Heretofore, I have mentioned several times that strained relations existed between the President and certain leaders in congress. That condition has not improved, to say the least. Indeed, I think it is very much worse.

Probably Vice President Garner and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, and Senator Harrison of Mississippi each will deny that which I am about to say but knowledge of it is so general around the capitol in Washington that a denial will not change my conviction.

Unless I have been reading political signs wrongly for 20 years, I am convinced that the strained relationship between the capitol and the White House now embraces Vice President Garner and Senators Robinson and Harrison. The vice president has done remarkable service in behalf of the New Deal but I never have believed that he was wholeheartedly in favor of all Roosevelt policies. Senator Robinson has served as majority leader and as such has carried the hod for the President on the floor of the senate day after day, fighting for legislation which the President wanted and generally serving as Mr. Roosevelt's right hand at the capitol. My own belief is that Senator Robinson would have changed many of the administration policies if he could have done so without endangering the President's leadership of the party. Much the same can be written about Senator Harrison who has served as the chairman of the senate finance committee, a powerful unit in carrying out New Deal policies.

'Way Back When

FAMOUS SONG WRITER KEPT A BOARDING HOUSE

I WONDER how many little women who are just simple housewives today would be famous, if they had the time to take from demands of their homes and families.

Carrie Jacobs Bond made her success because circumstances forced her to change from a housewife to a business woman. She was born in Janesville, Wisconsin, in 1863. She liked music and studied piano from childhood until she married at the age of eighteen. When she was twenty-five, she married Dr. Frank L. Bond, who took a sympathetic interest in her music and encouraged her to compose. She wrote one song, "Is My Dolly Dead?", at that time and it was accepted; but the work was merely a hobby with her and she did not produce more. She devoted her time and efforts to being a good housewife and mother for the Doctor and her little boy. Then, Dr. Bond was killed in an accident and she was left an invalid without money, and an eight-year-old son. Carrie Jacobs Bond did not lose heart. She rented a large house in Chicago and took in roomers. She made some money as a dressmaker and painting china. They were so poor that her son had to go to work soon thereafter as a delivery boy. Ambitiously, she devoted all her spare time to composing songs. Through financial support from a woman singer she started a small music publishing house, writing the words and music, and painting the cover designs of the songs she printed. She even promoted the songs herself, and little by little she won success. Today the songs she wrote are remembered and sung throughout the world, "A Perfect Day," "I Love You Truly," "His Lullaby," "My Son," "Do You Remember?" and others.

SENATOR PITTMAN RUSHED TO ALASKA

SO OFTEN gold buried far away in some inaccessible part of the world looks easier to get than fortunes awaiting us right at home. Senator Key Pittman of Nevada started his career on a wild goose chase for gold, but came back to make his success in the occupation for which his schooling fitted him.

Key Pittman, who was born in 1872, attended law college in Tennessee. His career at that time looked as though it might consist of practicing law, obtaining an appointment as district attorney, and forging ahead in politics with the United States senate as a goal. But young Pittman could not see it that way, and the reason was the Alaskan gold rush in 1896. He rushed up to the Klondike! And what happened? Key Pittman landed at Dawson just ahead of the freeze almost penniless. In Nome it is said that he worked at one end of a bucksaw to make a living. Then, the people made him district attorney. Shortly thereafter, he returned to the United States, settling in Tonopah, Nev., where he laid the foundation of his fortune in the Tonopah Telephone company.

In 1913, Key Pittman, in his first political contest, was elected to the United States senate, where he has given a good account of himself for 24 years. His greatest interest is to better the position of silver, inspired of course by the great production of this metal in Nevada.

Stories of wealth to be won in foreign fields sound so much more alluring simply because the fields represent the unknown and seem to offer more adventure. Probably while we are pining to be in one place, the fellow who is there wishes he were in ours.

Judge Often Handed Down Humor "From the Bench"

Late Lord Darling Lived Drab Scenes With Pleasantries.

Many are the stories told about Lord Darling—better known as Mr. Justice Darling, "England's wittiest judge"—who died recently. He was a poet, with several published volumes to his credit. But it was his humor "from the bench" that made his name almost a household word.

On one occasion, a talesman claimed exemption from jury duty on the ground that he was completely deaf in the left ear.

"You can go," said Judge Darling, gravely; "I cannot have anyone in the jury box who cannot hear both sides."

A lawyer who had the misfortune never to have acquired the ability to use the letter "h" (relates Silvain Mayer in his "legal" reminiscences), was engaged before Justice Darling in a case which had relation to a horse. For some time the lawyer kept referring to the animal as "an orse." After a while, Darling looked down and said:

"Was the animal a large horse or a little one?"

"Oh, a little one."

"Then," said the judge, "may we, for the remainder of the case, call it a pony?"

In another case before Justice Darling—in which a Cockney caterer was suing to recover the cost of a picnic luncheon he had provided for a large number of people—the plaintiff waxed highly indignant, under cross-examination, when it was suggested that his sandwiches were mostly "bread and bread," with the ham conspicuous only by its absence.

"I h'am amazed; I h'am surprised; I h'am—," he sputtered.

"That will do!" interrupted Darling. "I suggest that had you been more generous with your hams on another occasion and a little less liberal with them here, you might not have found yourself in this situation!"—Kansas City Star.

Identifying Houses

Before houses were numbered, London's business streets were lined on both sides by a succession of gay signboards exhibiting an almost infinite variety of blue boards, black swans, red lions, flying pigs and the like. Even with these signs it was often hard to find one's destination, for the signs were often so badly painted that it would have puzzled a naturalist to make out the animal meant.

"Oh, how can you say so," she said, "when you have written books about them?"

"Never, madam, never!"

IN MEMORIUM

SCHREIBER, AMELIA—In fond and loving memory of our dear wife and mother who passed away June 30, 1933.

Call not back the dear departed, Anchored safe where storms are o'er;

On the border land we left her, Soon to meet to part no more,

When we leave this world of changes, When we leave this world of care,

We shall find our missing loved one, In our Father's mansion fair.

George Schreiber and Family.

IN MEMORIUM

SCHREIBER, HENRY—In loving memory of our dear son and brother who passed beyond, July 1, 1936. Peaceful be thy silent slumber, Peaceful in thy grave so low; Thou no more will join our number, Thou no more our sorrows know.

Yet again we hope to meet thee, When the day of life is fled; And in heaven with joy to greet thee Where no farewell tears are shed.

George Schreiber and Family.

Early Agriculture in Ohio

So independent were the early Ohioans on agriculture that most other endeavors were considered fruitless. For example, when a young physician wanted to become the husband of Gov. Duncan McArthur's daughter, the father questioned the possibility of the young man earning a livelihood in this profession.

Perry Gives His Views on Lottie O'Neil Story

Wheaton, Ill., June 28, 1937 — When reached for comment on Representative Lottie O'Neil's statement in last week's newspapers, asserting that the impeachment proceedings brought by Representative Joseph Sam Perry was nothing but a Democratic Party squabble, he made the following reply:

"I do not propose to enter into any controversy with Mrs. O'Neil regarding her vote against an investigation of a serious gambling condition. The reasons she gave for voting to condone these gambling conditions, first, that it was a mere squabble in the Democratic Party, and second, that the Legislative calendar was too crowded to consider the matter, were both mere evasions of the issue.

"My action was taken at the specific request of civic leaders of Joliet, irrespective of party affiliations. That is sufficient answer to her assertion that it is a Democratic Party political fight.

"The Resolution was introduced almost two months before the Session was ended, and more time was required by Mrs. O'Neil and the Cook County Democratic Organization in smothering the investigation than would have been necessary to complete it. True, the calendar was crowded, but crowded with useless and even obnoxious bills. Nothing is more important than the integrity of our Judiciary, and it was a Legislative duty to consider the matter even if we should have had to remain in session all summer.

"I stand ready to present the material I have, and which I presented to the Legislature, before any civic body at any time. In fact, my records in this case are open to the public."

Elephant Good Worker

One job in which the elephant seems to have no equal is breaking up the jams of teak logs that occur every few miles in the Menan river of Slam. The hundreds of animals that are engaged in this work not only have the power to push or pull these giant pieces of timber out of tightly held positions, but they are often better than their manouts in finding the key log that is holding the jam.—Collier's Weekly.
